CHARLES PRICE

DIED SEPTEMBER 17, 1935

CHARLES WAS A REAL MAN.

A FRIEND TO EVERYONE.

A SCHOLAR BELOVED BY HIS PROFESSORS AND CLASSMATES.

AN ATHLETE OF IRREPROACHABLE SCHOLARSHIP.

"A WORKMAN THAT NEEDETH NOT TO BE ASHAMED."

HE WAS IN OUR MIDST WITH A CHEERFUL SMILE. THEN HE LEFT US QUIETLY ONE EVENING AND OUR HEARTS WERE HEAVY
BECAUSE OF HIS GOING. BUT WE ARE CONSOLED IN THAT

WE KNOW—

"HE IS NOT DEAD, BUT SLEEPETH."

HENRY CLAY MORRISON, D.D., LL.D.
President

A Christ-impassioned ministry. Self-denial and self-giving for God. A truly Christlike life. For these and more, we love you, Dr. Morrison.

"A school of the character of Asbury College has never been more important than now. . . . May God help us to be faithful to those things for which Asbury College exists."—H. C. M.

The Asburian

MRS. H. C. MORRISON

Through the years, Mrs. Morrison has aroused the deepest admiration of Asbury students for her strength of character and firmness of purpose.

It was through her untiring efforts that the Thanksgiving Offering in behalf of Asbury was such a success.

We owe her a debt of gratitude that can never be repaid.

T h e A s b u r i a n

Z. T. JOHNSON, M.A., Ph.D.
Vice-President

Dauntless energy. A firm faith in God, in Asbury, and in his fellow men. Unusual executive ability. We are truly proud of him.

"May the memories suggested by the 1936 ASBURIAN be filled with fragrant sweetness of love divine and cause a halo of sacred devotion to hover over every member of the Asbury family the world around."—Dr. Z. T. Johnson.

T h e A s b u r i a n

Besides his many duties as vice-president, Dr. Johnson has carried the heavy burdens of the business office. Here, he has served very ably and by his careful planning has been able to cause many improvements to be made on the campus.

His wealth of experience in other institutions as well as his aggressive and capable leadership have made him a great asset to Asbury.

FRANCIS MARION HESTON
Ph.D.

Dean of College

In that Administration building front office, Dr. Heston has faced the many responsibilities and trials of a college dean with quietness and patience. His courtesy and loyalty to his duty have won him the respect of the student body.

FRED HALSEY LARABEE
B.D., D.D.

Dean of Seminary

The exponent of true culture. A more sincere man than Dr. Larabee could not be found. His friendly word of greeting, his kindly interest in his seminary students, his courteous hospitality in the "missionary home" and his true Christian life have made him much beloved by us all.

Asbury College March

Just within the village Wilmore, on a hill so fair, Stands a College seen far distant with its purpose rare.

CHORUS

*Asbury College, it is the School we love,
Cheer its banner, the Purple and the White, Hurrah!
For Asbury College,
Which leads us to heights above,
We, its sons and daughters, when we part,
To her purpose we'll be true.*

*East and West and North and South are students far and near;
Those from lands across the sea, they all are gathered here.*

*All the nations share the blessings of the student there;
For each one has been the subject of some teacher's prayer.*

STUDENT FACULTY COMMITTEE

Chairman: PROFESSOR W. D. TURKINGTON

Faculty: MISS EATHEL V. DODDRIDGE AND MR. JAMES RANCK.

Senior: RUTH VAN METER AND LATON HOLMGREN.

Junior: MARJORIE SAVAGE AND LEONARD HACKNEY.

Sophomore: ESTALENE MOTT, Secretary, AND HOWARD MATTHEWS.

THE STUDENT GOVERNMENT

In order to develop unity in the student body and to represent the student voice in the government of the school.

The chairman and two faculty members are appointed by the college president. Two representatives are elected from each class, the Freshmen sponsors representing the Freshmen the first semester. The president is elected by the student body at large out of the Senior Class.

CLARENCE SIMPSON

With keen executive ability and logical purposefulness, Clarence has strengthened the student government and supervised the writing of a Student Government Constitution.

Purpose: That students having a worthy aim in life and a good character should not be forced to leave college for lack of funds.

The A. S. F. raises money through pledges, and offerings at monthly A. S. F. chapels and by sponsoring the annual A. S. F. program.

The monthly A. S. F. programs have all been clever this year—including the ushers. And of course the year was climaxed with the marvelous presentation, the colossal performance and the stupendous program: The A. S. F. à la leap year.

"—Stands a college seen far distant—"
 . . . Dr. Morrison calling his young people. . .
 Introducing a new student, "Skelly." . . .
 "Yeah, we hitch-hiked from Oregon." . . . Discussing the new freshmen.

September and the Kentucky woods, and one clear call to hike. . . . Leo's hikes were limited to the road to the depot. He brought the freshmen in. . . . Behold the Vice-President's White House. . . . Professor's Row—the homes of the mighty.

Burt turned cowboy, or else the "highwayman" who "came riding." . . . Coppage and Royster "took it easy." . . . The rest of us enjoyed ourselves lounging and talking on dorm steps or out on the campus.

Then came picture day. . . . After the memorable Art Program, the faculty take-off-ers talked it over. . . . Cary and Crain canoe at Camp Chelan. . . . Bravo! Herr Professor Von
 Whitten had a mighty battle mit his robot.

The freshmen were quick to learn the ways of college. There's one at Crawford doorway (What secrets it must know!) . . . And there's the Queen of the Freshmen smiling and saying,
 "Hello, everybody."

ANOTHER DAY ON THE CAMPUS,

Started the day with unexpected shower. . . . After breakfast met Miss Doddridge on her way to the classroom, laden with books. . . . Saw the philosophy and psychology department discussing campaigns for the day.

To chapel—an inspiring service. . . . To and from classes.

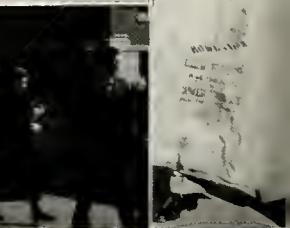

Heard the shout, "College Drah Cleanahs!" Saw Red.

Had conference with English prof. We discussed at length the methods of heating houses. . . . Saw Mrs. Ranck painting a landscape view. She surely knows how. . . . Found pleasant company in the girls' semicircle. . . . Spent afternoon pleasantly chatting with friends on the campus.

We took a hike to Swinging Bridge. . . . Took "Carmy" for a little stroll. . . . Soft water from the cistern.

When the supperbell rang dashed for the dining hall. (Can you name everyone in the picture?) . . . We had very good waiting service. In fact, Merle Rentz even served himself. . . . And Charlie just laughed and laughed because he knew Merle wasn't twins. . . . But Dr. Larabee just couldn't comprehend. It looked to him like the same difference.

After supper, for which we had— . . . Spent the evening in the library. . . . Typed way into the night on my term theme and notebook.

EXCERPTS FROM STUDENT DIARIES

S A T U R D A Y , S U N D A Y A N D M O N

The departure of the Ambassadors of the Air for their week-end singing has always been as regular as Saturday afternoon. . . . Look there! At the fish pond—so that's what became of our poor crane's head. . . . But pardon, we were speaking of Saturday afternoon. It has always drawn a group to the steps of the girls' dorm.

At six, of course, the clubs meet for their regular meeting or party. . . . Then come dates. Clarence had his, had you? . . . The evening has always started with a wait there in the parlor. But no doubt the young lady has had a page posted to warn, "Here's your date, Mary!" . . . After the program it's "Down to Pop's!"

Ten o'clock has always struck "Good-night" at the parlor door. Nothing then to do but to go to bed and dream about your date.

But with the Sabbath always dawns a blessed new day and we have found peace worshipping together at the church.

Following a dinner of chicken, cake, and ice cream, there have been the short pleasant moments to stroll and to sit on the campus. . . . At about two o'clock cars have taken us out in every direction to our missions.

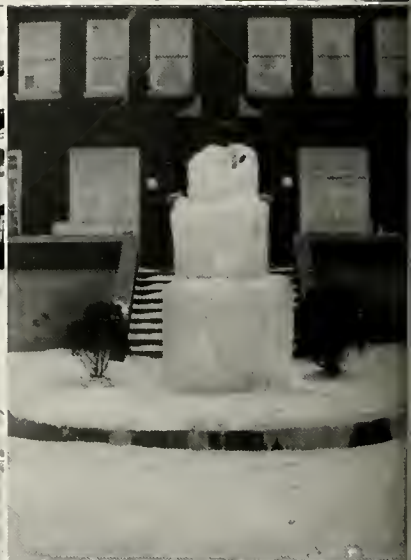

Monday has always meant clean-up, industrial work, or shopping in Lex. (Is it Christmas shopping, Gwen?) . . . And in good weather it has meant hikes and fun.

DAY ON AND OFF THE CAMPUS

THE SEASONS MAY COME AND

THE SEASONS MAY GO ★ ★

But our joy goes on forever.

In October it was the Volunteers' outing and annual convention at Camp Chelan.

November brought a crowd to the Dining Hall for a Thanksgiving feast.

December brought Christmas holidays, and carloads left at all hours for north, south, east, and west. . . . Then, the parlor became a cozy home to the few left behind.

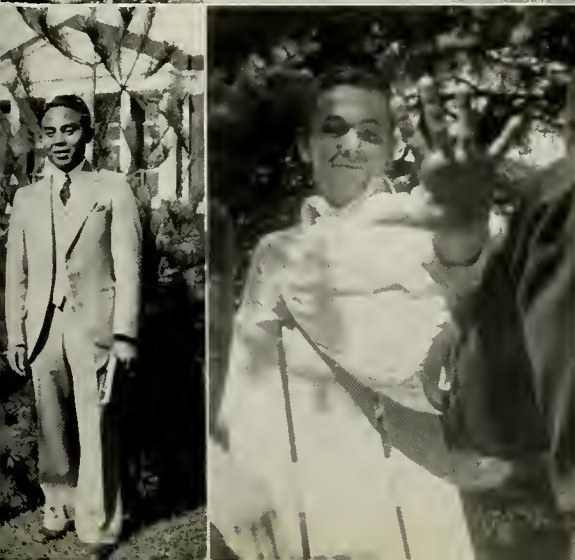

January had a frigid breath, and brought tons of snow and ice to the college. The ice-draped court-fountain was a thing of beauty, with its red, yellow and green lights.

The ice hung over into February, keeping frozen the streams and waterfalls.

With March in rolled the heavy Greyhound bus to carry our singers around the country. . . . So Chatterer bounded round and round his cage wheel for the joy of Springtime.

April ushered in Easter with its outdoor Easter resurrection service.

In May, nature was resurrected in full-flowing streams and fresh-green trees.

May has always been a time for overnight hikes; Freddy isn't the only one who cooked over an open fire. . . . May time also allures Mme. Sebring to take buggy rides. . . . Its sun is an old acquaintance of smiling Pio. . . . By the way, how many more days till commencement and June, Billy?

SPRINGTIME AND COMMENCEMENT

YOUTH AND A LIFE AHEAD ★ ★

Like that broad vista of Springtime beauty is the outlook of youth.

But the restraining wisdom of older years watches like the Discipline Committee surrounded by romantic couples.

Reg and Verla: two of the noblest.

Seth and Marg: say, who-all's looking at us?

William and Amy: the inseparables.

Mahlon and Magdalene: brother and sister superlatives.

Dorothy and Bob: storm clouds in the distance.

Same (a little later): a refreshing thunderstorm.

Minnie and Mamie: Goodnight, gentlemen.

Earl and Nell: strolling along.

And countless others.

And then final exams, with textbooks demanding all thought and attention. . . . Exams over and June here, many undergrads leave for a dreamy vacation.

Commencement week. Friends, families, coming, going. Cars from numerous states overrunning the campus. . . . The glory of commencement itself—with its robed professors. . . . Commencement is a highpoint in the life of every gowned and dignified senior who has marched into the auditorium, listened to a profound address, and has then received an A.B. or B.D. diploma as a certificate of his past study and as a certificate that he is able to go out into life and hold up his head among men.

To the Graduates—

Two Mountains

*Up Mount Ambition
Ascends the wobbly, striving stair
Of humankind;
And few there be
Who walk this shifting stair,
Its summit find.
But at the top
Where men praise them, call them fair,
On rolling stones and crumbling rocks,
They falter, slip and slide
Upon the other side,
To shame and to despair.*

*The Mount of Love,
Reached by steep and rugged ways
Of selfless deeds,
And helping hands
To comrades in the maze,
Its pathway leads
Up to the top,
Where men see not, do not praise;
Where valiant few who reach the crest,
Have rest, and satisfied,
In happiness abide
In love's reflected rays.*

Missionary League
Volunteers called to mission field

The Student Volunteer Union, with its missionary purpose, is the beating heart of Asbury College.

While here, we have raised funds for mission fields, prayed for mission fields, and spread the missionary gospel. But we have eagerly looked forward to the time when we ourselves might be bearers of the gospel in foreign lands.

When Jesus said, "Go ye into all nations—" he said it to every Christian.

" . . . How shall they hear without a preacher?"

Purpose: 1. A personal spiritual contact each month with every boy on the campus; 2. A revival in every appointment under the association; 3. A missionary program in each charge every semester; 4. An increased spiritual fervor in the heart of every member.

Membership: All ministerial students in Seminary, College, and High School.

Devotional services of spiritual uplift have been held every Friday night at 6:00 P.M.

Many missions have been sponsored.

CHRISTIAN SERVICE LEAGUE

LOLA HOLIFIELD President, First Semester
JOSEPHINE FISHER President, Second Semester
MRS. E. T. BARKER Sponsor

This organization has been a means of blessing to the campus as well as to the town.

Its regular Friday night meetings have been a source of inspiration. Meetings have been carried on at Greendale Reformatory.

Much visiting has been done among poor and sick, and spiritually needy people.

A prayer chain has been conducted for the missions.

"Upper Rooms" have been furnished in Crawford and Glide Halls.

MISSION WORKERS

Little Texas, Handy's Bend, High Bridge, Brooklyn Bridge, Jewel Heights, Camp Nelson, Bethel, Shakertown, Cloverbottom and others.

Truly, many of us can say with Jimmy Gibson, "I consider this the richest part of my college training. I find the people of rural Kentucky the most loving people in the world."

"This type of work has drawn us into a closer relationship with God, and has taught us to love all classes of humanity," as Lucian Smith once testified. We can all be thankful, as Bob Weaver is, for the "contacts" we "have made with the people of Kentucky," for they have been means of our growing spiritually.

Moreover, for many of us it is putting what we learn into practical use, as it has been for Robert Anderson, who says, "I am happy that I not only have the opportunity of going to school and obtaining an education, but that I also can get some real experience in the ministry."

RADIO DEVOTIONAL LEAGUE

"Good morning, friends—this is the Radio Devotional League sponsored by Asbury College and Asbury Theological Seminary in Wilmore, Kentucky." Thus has spoken Meredith Smith, Laton Earl Holmgren or Drew Wolcott every morning at 6:30 over station WHAS.

These daily broadcasts have been a blessing to the students who have been able to use them in the Master's service, and to their countless listeners.

The music has been furnished by the Ambassadors of the Air, or by the Radio Male Quartet. Charles Albright, first tenor; Horace Guiler, second tenor; Robert Smith, first bass; Dee Cobb, second bass; with Louise Herman at the organ. Many campus organizations have conducted its programs. Mr. Newton King is in charge of the League.

SEMINARY

"I could never face the task alone but the Master said, 'Lo, I am with you alway.' "

"When I begin to feel the magnitude of God's plan for the redemption of a lost world, my own strength is but weakness, yet I realize that this same God shall be my strength."

"God's call is far too great for me alone, but I am willing to be only an empty vessel for the Master's use."

These are our own testimonies as we have studied and prayed together, and as we have grown spiritually and mentally in Seminary classroom and religious services.

We have been peculiarly honored by God in receiving a call from Him to some definite type of Christian service. That is why we came to Asbury Theological Seminary where we might receive the specialized and spiritual training necessary.

Here Dr. Morrison has fired us with his burning passion for lost souls and with his consuming desire that others might love the God whom he so devotedly loves and serves.

Here Dr. Larabee has encouraged us by the example of his deep and quiet faith and his sacrificial work.

Here our professors, in classroom and out, have strengthened our faith in God and our zeal to fulfill His plan for our lives.

Professor Gaile Morris: We'll remember her classes in archaeological research, through which study a more firmly rooted knowledge has been gained of the backgrounds of Biblical truths.

Dr. Frank Morris and Prof. W. D. Turkington, with their earnestness for the truth, have been a daily inspiration in their classes.

But what can we always look back upon as having been more helpful in preparing us for our great work of life than the fellowship we have had with one another?

The lasting friendships that are formed.

The discussions about religious matters in which Dixon and Brinton were interested, and in which Dee Cobb or Townsley used to take part.

The enthusiasm of evangelist Jimmie.

The friendliness of Chuck Albright and Bob Green.

The wholeheartedness of George Evans and Wilbur Smith.

The testimonies in the Seminary prayer meetings.

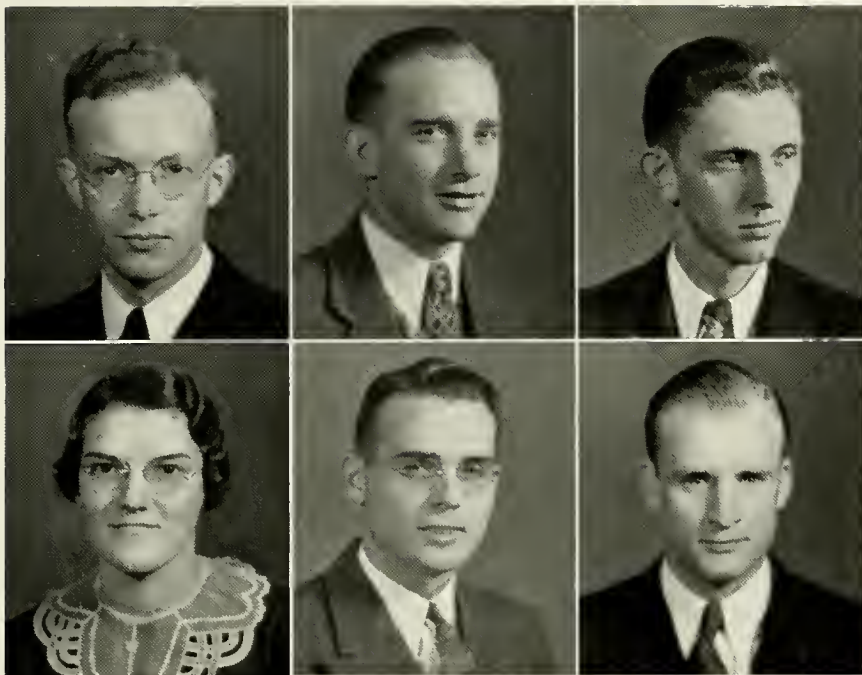

For our student body president we wisely chose "Mac." His refined Christian character and clear thinking have made him a most capable leader.

An outstanding event in the year's social life was the annual outing. At this time professors and students alike forgot dignities and cares that they might enjoy the glories of springtime and the fellowship of play.

Yes, we have studied in preparation for our high spiritual calling, and we have had fun while doing it. But we have also made our mark in the athletics at Asbury. A look at our basketball record proves that. And in other sports also we have played a leading part: tennis, track, baseball, and archery.

We have lived, we have studied, we have prayed together. Out in the world, where we become scattered over many parts of the globe may our memory of this place be a bond to hold us in spiritual fellowship that we might strive more earnestly than ever to truly bring the Kingdom of God unto men.

RELIGIOUS CALENDAR

"Seek ye first the kingdom of God and His righteousness and all these things shall be added unto you." Matt. 6:33.

Sept. 15-22 Annual Fall Revival

DR. H. C. MORRISON, Evangelist

Surely, never did Love speak more nobly, nor see more understandingly, nor pray more fervently than did our Doctor's as he brought those powerful messages to us. Through them we were brought into closer contact with the Master, and in them we found new strength to live our daily life.

Nov. 15 Day of Fasting and Prayer
6:00 P.M. Thanksgiving Offering, Consecration and Prayer Service.

No one could doubt Christ's living presence. He was especially near to us that day. There was a spirit of peace and consecration, and a wonderful atmosphere of assurance and faith.

Nov. 17 An Unusual Testimony Service in the Dining Hall
Spontaneous, quiet, and genuine testimonies for two hours after dinner.

Dec. 3-8 Missionary Revival
With Mr. and Mrs. Hodgins, "world-wide missionaries."

Their searching messages brought us a keener appreciation of the heart-cries of other lands. They stressed the fact that we must be Spirit-filled, consecrated workers before we can expect to be fit for the Master's use in any land.

Jan. 26-31 Annual Winter Revival

DR. VIRGIL MOORE, Evangelist

These sermons were vibrant with sincerity and forceful with truth. How clear the message was to our hearts—the simple and beautiful gospel of Jesus Christ, so full of Life and Love and Hope.

April 10 Good Friday Service

April 12 Easter
Special Service with the Women's Glee Club.

Every Tuesday, Thursday, and Saturday—8:00 A.M. Chapel

These services, at which we were addressed by many zealous men of God, or at which some musical program was presented, have always given a good start for the day.

Every Wednesday—6:00 P.M. College Prayer Meeting

Student prayers, student testimonies and heart-to-heart talks from classmates made this a sweet hour of consecration in the middle of the week.

Every Monday—6:00 P.M. Class Prayer Meetings

Here our Christian fellowship has been the closest and the sweetest.

May 31 Baccalaureate Sunday

Our religious life at Asbury has been like an Andante in a Symphony because of its spirit of Devotion. It has been fervent and natural, full of faith and peace. We have lived in its atmosphere of harmony and kindness. It is here that we have been filled with the one Christian ambition—to live for Jesus.

For true Christianity is not a doctrine, nor a theology, nor a philosophy of life. It is not found in beautiful words nor in long and loud prayers. It is but a way in which one lives. A Way that can be found only in the quietness of prayer, and by constant companionship with the Infinite.

Wisdom

The Asburian

New thought and opinion as well as attraction came this year with the formation of a women's debate squad with Norma Westervelt, Sue Bailey, Elizabeth Nixon, and Verla Ruth.

Another busy men's squad meeting: the southern ease of Copeland and the wit of Manville balanced Morse's vehement disagreements. Simpson's profound reasoning and Book's logic were stabilizing forces. Carruth's impetuosity was in sharp contrast to Dow's nonchalance, while Snead's radical opinions opposed Van Meter's naive arguments.

The Men's and Women's Squads achieved high honors at the Manchester College tournament, February 21 and 22. Participating in a tournament with great colleges and universities from many parts of the country, each Asbury team won four out of five debates.

The traveling squad, composed of Carruth, Kirkpatrick, Simpson, and Book, gained fame for Asbury at the institutions where they debated: University of Dayton, Wittenberg, Ohio Wesleyan University, Bowling Green College, Ohio, Findlay, Tiffin, Ashland, University of Akron, Kentucky State, Waynesburg, Marietta, and St. Xavier University.

INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS CLUB

The club is a member of the national organization belonging to the Ohio Valley Regional District. The convention in West Virginia was attended by Asbury delegates.

The membership of the club is composed of students interested in International affairs, and willing to participate in its discussions.

Our meetings this year have been especially enlightening. A great interest has been shown in world affairs. We had several visiting speakers, including Mrs. Server, professor of Spanish at the University of Kentucky. She gave an address on Mexico.

PRE-MEDICAL CLUB

President, WILLIAM WILCHER; Secretary-Treasurer, GEORGE DAVIS; Program Committee Chairman, IRENE OWENS. PROFESSOR J. B. KENYON is our adviser. OLD SKELLY, our mascot, is in the middle of the picture.

In our regular meetings we have discussed matters concerning the medical profession and once, in the first semester, we took a trip to the Louisville Medical School. We have also had several men and women, eminent in the medical profession, come to speak to us.

Our members are studying to be physicians, nurses, or medical missionaries.

HOME ECONOMICS CLUB

LOUISE HERMAN President
 ELIZABETH GIBSON Vice-President
 JULIA BEALL Secretary
 EDYTHE LEWIS Treasurer

AMONG OUR ACTIVITIES ARE:

In September:

Initiation of new members in Putnam Parlor.
 A genuine Hotte Dogge Roastte.

In October:

Annual Fall Fashion Show.
 Some of the pretty as well as practical costumes gave proof of some of the skillful seamstresses in our midst.

In November:

The State Home Economics Convention at Mammoth Caves.

In December:

A "Homey" Christmas party in Home Economics rooms.

The members of this club have been learning the real art of home-making; many to go into the work for a profession. It cannot be denied that the Home Economics Club has been a useful and practical unit on the campus.

THE PROPHECY OF ETAOIN SHRDLU

First Vision

And there was a great darkness over the face of the earth, as the darkness of eternal night. And the earth shook and time fled by like unto a mighty, rushing wind, and great was the speed thereof.

And, lo, the earth trembled and there was a great noise, as of sudden stopping. And behold, I saw a light, and the light grew and I beheld the earth and all that therein was.

And the lightning flashed and I beheld a certain home and a church nearby. And in the home many stout and laughing children gathered round a comely dame with the quiet dignity of an Abbey. While 'neath the spreading elm, outside, the village Smith stood. And darkness fell.

And the lightning flashed and lo, there appeared a great concert hall where kings and nobles sat in glittering robes, their eyes and ears intent upon the platform where a certain young woman brought forth gracious music from a grand piano, and I looked again, and behold, 'twas Magdalene Amstutz. And darkness fell.

And the lightning flashed and I beheld one like unto Bernard Russell. And before him were many faces, and the faces were black, and many were prostrate; some were in tears, some were in joy; all were intent upon the speaker. And the Spirit of the Lord filled that place. And it rose upward out of my vision and was gone.

And there was a strange noise as of much static, and I beheld a million homes. And it was Sunday afternoon. In each home I saw a family, gathered about a similar instrument from which was heard the voice and seen the tall, straight, sedate figure of a certain Dr. Holmgren as he gave forth in singing tones his weekly gospel message.

And again the lightning flashed and this time there was a quiet room, reposeful in its atmosphere. And at the desk there sat a woman writing, and I saw that she was writing a story of sorrow and of joy in a Christian home. And there were other books before her, and the name of their author was Lola Holifield. And it was dark.

And I thought I slept and was wakened by the sound of many machines and I beheld a thousand, yea, two thousand, damsels in white as with dextrous fingers they plied their separate tasks in the manufacture of "Beaman's Better Bon Bons."

The vision faded and the noise changed and I saw a little job printing establishment, and little Melita watching her daddy at the press while her mother read a letter from Whitehall, New York. From his perch on top of the linotype machine, young Cole Day whistled a strangely familiar trill and held up two fingers at his father's back.

The hum of machinery subsided and the clean, pungent odor of a modern hospital filled my nostrils as I turned to behold one Marion Clingen as she supervised the activities of the Chinese nurses. And darkness fell.

And the lightning flashed and I looked and beheld a great training field and it was the Olympic training field. And there was a man of great authority amongst them and his name was Henderson.

And darkness fell and a great quiet. And I beheld a mighty cathedral and a heavenly music filled that cathedral and all was peace and beauty and reverence, and a straight-backed figure sat at the organ. And I heard one whisper unto another: "Knowest thou not? There is none organist in all the land greater than this one, John by name!" And the darkness was very great and again the earth trembled mightily and it was day.

T h e A s b u r i a n

Second Vision

And it was another day, and, behold, the clouds rolled back and I saw before me a mighty scroll, and the scroll was white and the edges thereof were purple.

And I saw that a finger did issue forth from the clouds and the finger wrote upon the scroll, and writing, prophesied:

"For it shall come to pass in the days that are yet to be that there shall rise up in the land a certain institution of great learning. And the name of the institution is Asbury College. And lo, in those days the lord of the institution shall be a certain man of mighty wisdom, Dr. Clarence Simpson. And he shall be called its second great 'Educational Head.'" For this was the first writing.

And the finger moved again:

"And it shall come to pass in the inscrutable ways of men that Kathryn Sue shall be prevailed upon to forsake the land of her brothers and deny the name of Bailey and go into a far country, even unto the Nawth, there to abide among strangers for the love she bears unto her husband, a tall and silent man." For this was the second writing.

And the finger moved and did write:

"For there shall appear after the passage of countless years silver threads among the gold, and the noble Alfred shall weary of his time-honored hobby and shall take unto himself a Georgian wife. And there will be many ducklings in the land." And this was the third writing.

And I beheld that the finger did write, and writing, wrote:

"For it shall be that Faith Wirsching will in that day be proclaimed House Mother to succeed Miss Gorsuch and shall be greatly loved for her sweet and tender solicitude" And this was the fourth saying.

And there was another:

"For it shall come to pass that Olsen Harrison shall in that day be proclaimed a bishop. And in those days Bishop Harrison shall appoint unto the church that is in Wilmore, Rev. James Harmon, a worthy man and true." For this was the fifth saying.

And the moving finger wrote and having writ moved on:

"And it shall come to pass in those days that Don Morse shall reside in Washington, and shall call himself, 'Your Washington Correspondent.' And he shall go about, shaking his finger in the countenances of the Senators of the land. And it shall be said of him that he is the chief lobbyist of the farmers. And he shall be the first to publish to the world the new political theory of one William Einstein Van Meter which shall startle the world and revolutionize the thought of as many as shall be able to fathom its profundity."

And the moving finger wrote of strange lands and of mighty works therein. And there appeared upon the scroll, in letters fringed with gold, many names. And I saw that there were there the names of Grace and Wilbur Smith, Charles Marshall Cavit, Karl Rice. And these were but a few of the names that thereon were writ.

And others there were of whom the finger did write: of Ronald, whose importation of Hungarian cheeses shall be within the Law and with the in-laws; of Joseph Wesley Matthews, who shall be known as America's most outstanding pulpit orator; of Rev. and Mrs. Roland Hudson, world evangelists; and of Gilbert Nee, whose many books shall be translated from the Chinese into English, Norwegian, French, German and Ethiopian by himself.

And the moving finger writes, and having writ, moves on. And I saw that there was writ upon the scroll many writings, and of the number of the writings there was no end. And the vision faded and the clouds rolled back and Time was.

JUNIOR CLASS

The Blue and White pranced upon the campus in September, '35, with gleeful merriment. It suddenly stopped. Something was wrong! There were a lot of strange children scattered about. That's it! They were new Freshmen. And they needed to be cared for. In that case last year's Freshmen must be Sophs and last year's Juniors must be Seniors. Then it, the Blue and White, must be the new Junior class.

The class scratched its eighty-two heads, thirty-nine of which came here in the fall of '33. Having come to the conclusion that it was the Junior class, it began to realize that it was an upper class. That meant it must behave. But more than that it, the class of '37, being Juniors, had to introduce its sister class of '39 to Asbury ways and woes.

"Pat" was at a loss what to do. The Vice-President-elect had not returned and how could he, the dignified class president, "throw a party" for the dear little Freshies? He had never had kindergarten training. But Virginia Rowlands came to the rescue. She and her helpers made a mighty good thing of that Freshman reception.

But our hero still had a problem. There was no vice-president. He assembled his classmates and they forthwith held an election to fill vacancies. They put Princess Eugenie, with the red hair and clever brain, in the seat of the Vice-President.

This young lady immediately put her originality into effect by dazing her fellow officers while she produced an unforgettable program filled with mystery (Remember that spooky brain child of the mighty Junior dramatist, Mr. William Wells?) with comics (Remember Mickey Mouse, Perry Winkle, Mutt and Jeff?) and with beauty (Remember the artistic silhouettes?).

Surely, after this affair it was time for our noble class to rest itself while it brewed up its next burst of ingenuity.

In the meantime Ruth Ziemer, Seamands and Stokes were cutting, slicing and top-spinning their way to high scores in the tennis tournament.

J. T., not only a good tennis star and a good rumbler in the Ambassador's of the Air quartet, made good in the way of speech. He took second place in the State Peace Oratorical Contest.

The Panthers struggled upon the basketball floor and came out of those struggles with the 1936 championship.

Fifteen rahs for the brawn of these Juniors. But alas for their tired brains. For another struggle was going on in two small offices in the conservatory. A few Juniors were staying up nights minding that uncontrollable baby which they had hopes would be a 1936 Asburian some day, but which seemed itself to be quite otherwise minded.

A new semester and new glory. That unapproachable pair, Carruth and Kirkpatrick, equalled and surpassed the debating fame of their Sophomore year.

Tired, exhausted, and yet happy, the Juniors cleaned up after the gala and royal Junior-Senior banquet. It was a great success, and will remain in memory as an outstanding example of the artistic ability and untiring energy of the "good old class."

The last get-together as Juniors was at the last prayer meeting. These prayer meetings have been a quiet, soothing hour in the busy lives, like a sweet calm voice that stills the roaring tempest.

"We are glad for the experiences of our Junior year. In accomplishing the tasks that we had to do we strengthened our characters and grew in solid Wisdom."

SOPHOMORE CLASS

Wide awake! That's us. Sure! Comets, you know. Gold comets on a blue field streaking across the basketball floor and all around the campus.

We flashed with good fun when we met around the flagpole in the fall for our get-together.

We flashed with good fun in the merriment of Freddie; in the friendships of Vernelle and Arlene, Burt and Jimmy, Evelyn and Peggy, Patsy and Buddy.

Tom Bird flashed to a winning place on the tennis court.

Walter Johnson got away with a ping-pong championship.

Not only do we flash in sports and fun. We shine in our abilities.

Paul McIntire with his viola, and accompanied by his brother at the organ, gave the college that beautiful Sophomore Vesper Service.

If you haven't known that Comets add much to the melody of life, look at us: Lucy and Sara, singer and pianist; George Winn at the organ. Faith Stewart plays the chimes, and Bill Evans has an unusual knack in playing the radio.

Burt Bosworth doesn't claim to be a musician, but he's a crack entertainer. He kept the Sophomore pep a-bubbling.

We've been busy. And who busier than Jo Long this year? Or than Frank Marwood with his hands always in wrecked cars? But there were some Sophs who were not too busy to have extra class activities. For instance: Don, Katy, Olga, Harvey, and Becky.

And, believe it or not, we Sophs, not satisfied with ordinary class and college activities, have even gone so far as to study.

Aren't those grades on Ellen Gill's card enviable? They are. Isn't Evelyn Lockard a good example of an all-round scholar? She is.

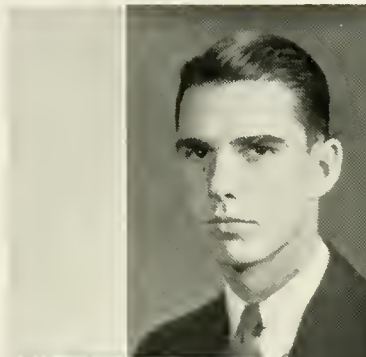

Ah, we've been good old Sophs, everyone of us. There's Pio. He's a lad we'll always remember. Pio Daba comes from de Pheelepeens and we all deenk verry moch of heem. China must have given Maurice Culver a good sense of humor. But, boy, oh Boy, OH BOY, Hungary never had a man like Ronnie, did it, Matsy?

The Sophomore year of the class of thirty-eight! A good year. And best of all were the prayer meetings so carefully planned by Betty Gaye and Bryant Howard.

Flying Eagle

Philippians 4:13-14

Our first year in college. Just Freshmen. But after all, no year will ever be just like it. It was hard for many of us to leave home. Yet the friendships we have formed here with students and professors will always be kept.

It is interesting to look back on those first days—

Remember how you looked at that semi-circle the first time, and you wondered what it would mean for you?

And when we were signing up for courses and did not know what three semester hours meant—just three hours for the entire semester! I remember wondering if Miss Sprague were really as mild as she looked; and Jo Starbuck asked me if I supposed Madame Sebring ever really threw people out of windows.

Were you one of the poor froshies who was fooled into buying a chapel seat?

Of course we all remember that frolicking kid party. Hatchy with the big red bow under his chin; Emily Duke as a most jolly colored lassie; and Dotty Dorrycott as such a dainty little miss. The mama of all the Freshmen kiddies was Charlotte Blood. They called us the campus babes. Well, if we were "babes," we were precocious babes with singers like Marcella or Angela. Jerry Case and Bill Gillam with the fiddle and piano would have been an asset to any class.

But we soon learned the "swing" of campus life. What a thrill we had when the Flying Eagles first ran out on the hardwood floor! Those good basketballers had some stiff fighting and good playing.

No one can say that our class has not been as prominent in our ability at socials as the best of the upperclasses. Charlotte Blood made some splendid plans and the results of those plans will always be remembered as a beautiful formal party in the spring.

The Spiritual Committee and the class chaplains prepared many helpful prayer meetings for us. It will not be easy to forget the impressive Christmas pageant or the Abraham's Altar service, Sam Emerick.

Was it because of his winning smile that we chose Mallory to be our class president? His wise leadership during the second semester has justified us in our choice.

A good year for a good class. The Flying Eagle was trying its wings and it has found them strong and well able to carry it up into the heights of wisdom and fame.

Our scholarship at Asbury has been like an Andante in a Symphony, because of the inherent characteristic of each of them—Wisdom. At Asbury we have learned not merely the teaching of certain text books, but we have learned where and how to find the rich sources of knowledge. We have learned to think and to think logically.

Education is cultivation of the mind. A cultivated mind is one which not only is well developed in some specialized field, but which has a general knowledge of all other fields. Asbury's courses with their concentration groups, majors, and contributing subjects have been the means of the cultivation of our own minds, of giving us a broader outlook, that we might live more successful lives among our fellow men.

Fifty Pieces in the Orchestra

We have played for many college programs and have given several concerts. We have numbered among our selections many symphonies and other classical compositions as well as many lighter or more modern musical pieces.

THE ASBURY STRING QUARTET

The Asbury String Quartet has been extremely popular on the campus and elsewhere. It made a tour in Indiana during the fall. It includes in its repertoire many of Mozart's and Beethoven's masterpieces for string quartets.

ART CLUB

Our Art Club has united the Art Department and given us opportunity to use our talents and training.

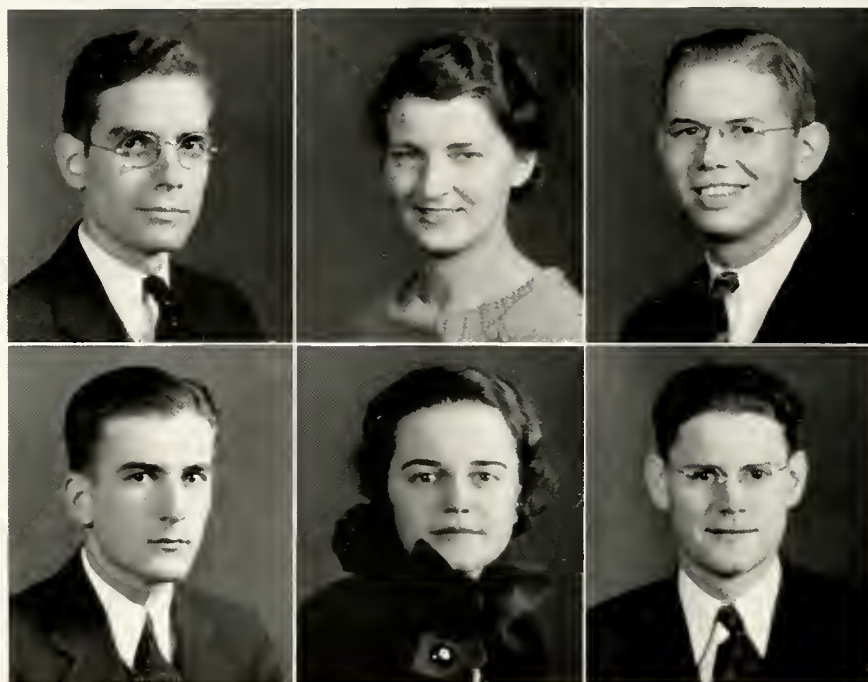

Chalk talks are favorites with Asburians. Our groups have often met to make still life studies or to sketch poses from real life.

That interesting Art Club program, which Mrs. Ranck so carefully prepared, with its faculty take off and other features was presented to raise funds.

MRS. JAS. RANCK

Mrs. Ranck has greatly improved the department and has made the college art conscious. Her services in painting and in costume designing are greatly in demand.

COMMENCEMENT WEEK

Fine Arts Program

Art Exhibit

Choral Union Concert

Our fine arts at Asbury are like an Adagio of a symphony because of their spirit of Interpretation. They exhibit the ability of finding the good and the beautiful in life about us. They are representative of the culture, the good taste and refinement which are characteristic of the Christian gentleman and the Christian woman.

It is the deep sense of the heart responding to the voice of the artist which makes true appreciation of fine arts. It is the deep sense of the heart translated into activity which makes true participation in fine arts. It is the deep sense of the heart expressing its inmost thoughts through words, music, painting, or some other medium, which makes true creation of the fine arts:

Motto: "Jesus Only."

Purpose: To develop a Christian fellowship and mutual understanding of International Relations and to inspire the appreciation of talents in language, music, poetry, speech, art, literature, and customs.

Coming from many lands we have felt a peculiar and close friendship with one another.

We have extended this friendship to all Asburians, especially when we appeared in full native costume in the dining hall, and when in December we sponsored a chapel program at which "Gibby" Nee presided in his entertaining fashion.

Armistice Day, which we commenced with a radio broadcast, we considered our own special International Day on Asbury's campus.

"The Voice of Many Lands." The publication of this book in which well-known Christian natives of many lands have written the heart thoughts of their own people was the crowning work of this year's activities.

Big Sisters: The upperclass girls.

Little Sisters: All the new girls who have entered Asbury for the first time.

The aim of this group is to make the college atmosphere as near home-like as possible for the new students. It has proposed to develop a feeling of unity among the girls themselves.

During the summer about one hundred and twenty little sisters were distributed to the older girls. They started a correspondence and became so well acquainted that September seemed like a home-coming for all of them.

An informal tea was given one afternoon in honor of the new girls. Later on nearly all the feminine touch left the campus, when the Big Sisters and Little Sisters alike packed into trucks and stole off to High Bridge Park. There they had a hamburger roast, and afterward a song service around the great campfire.

We should have included the Artist Series and Fine Arts Programs, too, perhaps, for they have had much to do with the social life of the campus. At least so thinks the little girl, who, from the round window in Glide-Crawford has watched the youths wending their way to the programs, or afterwards, down to Pop's.

Every Saturday evening, between six and seven: Club Meetings.

The clubs on Asbury's campus have supplied a very necessary place by grouping the young people together into small familiar societies in which they might have Christian fellowship and in which they might help each other in the building of the character and the mind.

Club meetings have been held regularly every Saturday evening from six to seven, and the companionship of those hours have made a great impression for good upon our lives.

For the social life at Asbury has been like a pleasant Adagio in the Symphony because of the true spirit of Friendship. Its hours of relaxation we will often remember as our most precious experiences. Then, too, conversation and wholesome play with others is as much preparation for future life and for future contact with the world as is the classroom lecture. We learn to better understand our fellowmen, and by our genuine interest in others we brush away the hardened selfishness of our hearts.

Friendship is the greatest wealth that life offers.

ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION

"To provide some form of recreation or athletic endeavor for every student on the campus." Tennis, basketball, baseball, softball, track, archery, volley ball, mat and tumbling, ping pong, and hiking—all separate activities designed to provide some sport that will attract and interest each student on the campus.

The department of Physical Education has grown under the direction of Mr. Arthur K. Henderson, with the assistance of a staff of competent associate coaches in the various sports, and the advisory assistance of an Athletic Council.

The Council has worked hard to create interest in the program of the department, and the increased attendance at basketball games gave evidence of the success of their labors.

ARTHUR K. HENDERSON

- His experience, initiative, and interest have made him a distinct asset to this department. Everyone recognizes the improvement that he has made in the athletic program at Asbury.

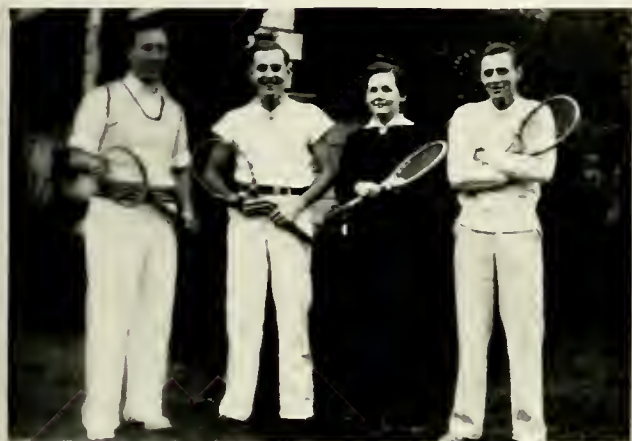

It shall be our purpose in the following pages to trace, in a coherent manner, the story of Asbury Athletics during the year, commencing with tennis and through to the field day track meet in the spring.

THE ASBURY ATHLETIC COUNCIL

- Ava Anne Pierson, Maxine Dooley, Marion Clingen, Virginia Mix, Miles DePagter, Clarence Simpson, Paul Whitten, Arthur Henderson, Edwin Reeves, William Burton.

T E N N I S

The fall tennis tournament drew an unusually long list of entrants and large galleries watched the matches as they were played during the afternoons. Seth Granberry won the Men's Singles with a straight set victory over Tom Bird. Macrory and Bird won from Stokes and Simpson in the finals of the Men's Doubles. Jeanne Drury, a newcomer, won the Women's Singles at the expense of Ruth Ziemer. Bird and Drury combined forces to win from Granberry and Ziemer in the finals of the Mixed Doubles. The brand of tennis exhibited during the fall tournament gave promise of an even more interesting and close tournament during the spring.

SENIOR CARDINALS
JUNIOR PANTHERS

The men's basketball tournament was one of the most interesting played on the Asbury hardwood in several years, mainly because all of the teams were evenly matched. At no time, during the entire season, was any team certain of coming out on top. The Junior "Panthers" finally clinched the championship in the last encounter of the season, defeating the Seminary "Preachers." All of the teams were beaten at least once; this had not happened for several seasons of play. Many of the victories were only by margins of one or two points, and only three or four of the games could be called "walk-aways."

BASKETBALL

The last game of the season, by far the most exciting, With a team that has developed since the class was organized, the Senior "Red-Birds," lacking that scoring "punch" which would have placed them higher, made every team work hard for its victory. Maxwell, Sneary and Beaman, forwards; Duck and Davis, centers; Jones (Captain), Goodhand and Book, guards, made up the scrappiest team in the school, even if they did win only one game.

Combining height, experience, consistency and teamwork, the Junior "Panthers" went through the season with but one defeat. Captain Amstutz led a team that had had much previous experience. Crain, Stokes, Young, and Good made up the forward wall; "Sully" Nelson amply cared for the tip-off; Amstutz, Kretzschmer, and Tucker provided sufficient defense to keep the score of their opponents low. Three all-star men came from this team, but actually the team was a unit, not made up of individual players.

Juniors—41
Seminary—32

The last game of the season, by far the most exciting, decided the championship for the Juniors. The photographer, theoretically speaking, took this picture during the game; but don't ask us how Jones got into the picture.

Providing more thrills for the grandstand than all the other teams, the Sophomores never played an uninteresting game the entire season. Inconsistency was their greatest fault; their never-say-die spirit fully compensated for this weakness. Captain Wilson, Glen Jones, and Clarence Kerr handled the guard positions; McCleary was at center; Bird, Cox, Avery, and Falkenberg did the scoring for the "Comets."

The Freshmen "Eagles," handicapped by a serious lack of experience and team-work, creditably upheld the honor of their class. After a rather disappointing start, they began to click sufficiently to score the big upset of the season, a 21-18 victory over the "Panthers." Captain Raymer, Dean, and Hatch, forwards; Seagraves and Jones, centers; Robinson, Dibert, Petticord, and King, guards, complete the picture of a team that gave promise of great prowess in future seasons.

The flashiest and most aggressive team in the school—yet the preachers just could not handle the "Panthers." They had a great deal of experience to back up individual playing and well-organized practice. To Coach Dixon goes much of the credit for the fine showing this team made. But to each of the players we owe recognition; Elton Jones and DePagter were excellent scoring guards; Lee, lacking height, was a fine defensive center; Reeves, Townsley, and Simpson provided the best working offense—an offense that was never effectively checked.

The Juniors ended in first place, winning seven out of eight games.

The Seminary and the Sophomores tied for second place, each winning five and losing three games.

The Freshmen were third in line, winning three and losing five games.

The Seniors landed in the cellar because they won only one game out of eight.

SOPHOMORE COMETS; FRESHMEN FLYING EAGLES; SEMINARY PREACHERS

EDWIN E. REEVES
Coach of Men's Basketball

• Ed's whole title might have been "Professor of Basketball in Theory and Practice." He knew basketball and how to teach it. He was well liked by all the players and was a keen sport.

MARION CLINGEN
Coach of Women's Basketball

• Miss Clingen has not only coached women's basketball, but has directed all of the women's athletic activities with an interest and ability that added effectiveness to the department.

AND THERE THEY ARE THE ALL-STARS IN ACTION

Ray Kretschmer, guard; Elton Jones, guard; John Simpson, forward; Dwight Amstutz, forward; Edgar Nelson, center.

ASBURY ALL-STARS

The two leading teams placed all of the members on the mythical Asbury all-star team. No one would have thought of omitting "Sully" Nelson, the high center of the Junior team. His consistent control of the tip-off and all round good sportsmanship, make him an outstanding member of this team. Simpson—well, he hasn't missed for so many years, and there are still plenty of "baskets" in the boy. Amstutz is such a dependable teammate in all positions that there is no doubt as to his superiority. Elton Jones, a newcomer to Asbury basketball, pleased the crowds with his finished performances and good nature. Kretschmer was an excellent guard before he reached Asbury, and has, to say the least, not deteriorated while here.

T H E A S B U R Y Q U I N T E T T E S

The Freshmen, with height and team spirit, went through their season with no defeats. After all, there was very little any team could do with Sarah Butts when she got the ball under the basket. Winston, Mobley, Fessler, Kanuckle, and Reeves supplied the supporting cast for Miss Butts' propensities.

The Sophomores won more than half of their games. They had practically the same team that had won the championship for the Freshmen "Comets." "Buddy" Cole and "Ted" Thompson were by far the outstanding girl forwards. Stewart,

SOPHOMORES

Brace, Craig, Yeater, and Mortimore finished the lineup.

The Junior girls had a hard fight, but they held most of their opponents to close scores, and managed to salvage something from the season. Dunn, Coffman, Heckendorn, Winston, Beall, Welsh, and Elam defended the honor of the weaker "Wildcats."

The Senior girls failed to click at the start of the season, but when their "watch-charm" forwards, Bald and Mix got together, they began to greatly improve. Goodhand, Abbey, Cole, Clingen, Fisher and Steinhart made up a sporting, if futile, combination.

THUS ENDETH THE BASKETBALL

WITH THE GREATEST OF EASE

• One of the most effective stunts in this fifteen-man solid pyramid. Notice the effect at the bottom of the page.

One of the finest means of recreation and physical development is furnished by the mat and tumbling classes. The boys are trained in a progressive course of tumbling, in which, beginning with the most simple rolls, they develop more and more co-ordination and bodily control, until they execute the most complicated flips and dives. The classes this year, under the direction of Mr. Henderson, developed in an unusually rapid manner, and were entertaining the basketball crowds with their maneuvers all during the season. The all-round development and good fellowship enjoyed in these classes made it well worth while for all those who signed up for "Mat."

• The effect—the question is, Ladies and Gentlemen, just what happens to the man on the bottom when everybody let's go and piles on. Anyway, it was an exciting point in the mat exhibition between games.

• Another fine sight, but not so hard on the man on the bottom, is this fan formation, another one of the many stunts staged by the mat classes. A beautiful exhibition of planned gymnastics.

Since Diana and Cupid were both ardent followers of the noble sport of Archery, and since Asbury is the "Match" factory that it is, we feel that Archery justly deserves the place of importance that it now occupies in Asbury athletics. Under the direction of Mr. Marshall Cavit, whose ability to hit the bull's eye and teach others how to do it earned for him the position of coach, Archery has become a serious and earnest avocation for many Asburians. In fact, even the faculty has answered the call of this ancient sport, and "Al" Smith did unto himself much honor reap, by becoming one of the most accurate of the jolly followers of Robin Hood. The Archers invented a game called "Indian Warfare," without either Indians or warfare. Anyway, it looked like fun, but who ever heard of dead Indians being resurrected to fight again—but when you kill your good shots, how do you ever end the game?

And while we are on the subject, perhaps we should mention hiking, because that is one of the things that makes Monday afternoon worthwhile, or worthless, depending on the absence or presence of rain. There are many beautiful places of interest within easy hiking distance of the college, and many take advantage of this fact to put in their two hours of physical education every week. The only trouble with hiking was that too many were procrastinators and forgot to hand in their time slips, so Mr. Henderson and Miss Clingen did not hand in their credit.

SEEN ON THE ARCHERY RANGE

• This is a beautiful sport for the spectator and participant. But, oh, we hope he hits the balloon! And presenting, last but not least, the man who taught them how—Mr. Marshall Cavit.

In the Spring a young man's fancy turns to thoughts of—various things; and, if he's an athlete, or if he isn't, he likes especially to think of baseball or its infant counterpart, softball.

This sport, a new thing at Asbury, received much more attention and did its larger constituency even more good than hard ball. There were spring and fall tournaments between the classes, in which over 150 persons played, either in some or in all of the games. Faculty and students alike fell prey to its intriguing merits. From the Vice-President and the Chairman of the Discipline Committee to the lowliest of the Freshmen—all were brothers in the great fraternity of the soft-ballers. The previous Spring the

“STRIKE THREE”

• There is action a-plenty on the diamond whenever two of the class teams get together for their weekly game of softball—and even the faculty isn't immune to the lure of this game.

Sophomores, class of '37, won a hard-fought and well-earned championship, but the Seminary team showed such superiority in the fall tournament that there was little doubt as to the final outcome of the tournament. The Class of '38 established an all-time record for games lost, by only winning one game.

POLE VAULTING AND TRACK

Among the many improvements in the new athletic department, none is more strikingly unique than the improvement found in the creation of a class in track.

Johnny Simpson and Arthur Henderson were the instructors of this class, which has served to make the competition for the annual field day more finished and effective as a judge of real track ability and merit. Classes have devoted their attention and have trained rigorously for superiority in individual or related events.

Heretofore, participants had entered the track meet with no previous training or instruction in jumping, running, or in weight events.

The new plan has afforded the maximum of efficiency in the individual fields of activity and a period of beneficial physical training for the annual field day events.

The most important improvement in the entire Physical Education department is the recreation room which replaced a previously useless girl's gymnasium. Ping pong tables and shuffle board equipment have been provided for the amusement and entertainment of Asburians.

The spot rapidly grew in popularity and established itself as a'most more popular than Putnam Parlor. Frequent tournaments, doubles and singles have provided plenty of incentive for enjoyable competition. The ladder tournament, originated by the supervisors, created a permanent means of competition among the better players, and at the same time provided a means of recognition for those players who improved during the season.

The newest Asbury sport is volleyball, or maybe it has just come into its own at last. A tournament among class teams was arranged for the interval between the close of the basketball season and the opening of the Spring sports.

The aim of the Physical Education department has provided some form of recreation or athletic endeavor for every student on the campus. Certainly too much credit cannot be given to Mr. Henderson and his colleagues for their excellent organizing and administrative ability in the department during 1935-36. They established improvements and precedents in the department that have done much to give all Asbury students a sane and pleasurable program of recreation and athletics.

According to a new system organized by Mr. Arthur Henderson, a letter in athletics will be awarded each spring to students having twenty-five or more points. These points are:

- 10 for winners in major sports and for members of winning teams.
- 6 for second-placers in major sports and for members of second-place teams.
- 4 for third-placers in major sports and for members of third-place teams.
- 2 for participation in major sports.
- 5 for winners in minor sports.
- 3 for seconds in minor sports.
- 2 for thirds in minor sports.
- 1 for participation in minor sports.

THE LIBRARY STAFF

"Just one big happy family"—that's what the library staff has been with Miss Mackey and Mrs. McKay keeping all their children busy helping the borrowers get the material they need and preparing new material for use. Several of the library processes, such as cataloging, mending, binding, lettering, and circulation records, were interestingly shown at the Open House Exhibition which was held Saturday, February 1.

This year we chose Charles Stokes for our president; Mary Elisabeth Bunch, vice-president, and Lloyd Babb, secretary-treasurer.

Thanksgiving morning we had a delicious breakfast of waffles, bacon, coffee, and good maple syrup. This was followed by a very inspirational testimony and praise service.

What fun we had with our unknown "Library pals!" What fun it was to find their hidden gifts! The week before Christmas was pervaded with an atmosphere of mystery.

Dean Kenyon was an able auctioneer at the sale of old books. It is surprising the amount of reading material one can collect for a dime. (Take a peek at Eddie Clingen's library.)

THE LIBRARY

The staff, cooperating with our librarian, Miss Mackey, and her assistant, Mrs. McKay, has brought about some decided improvements in the library. The Periodical Room was removed to the basement to make room for the increasing number of books. The previous Periodical Room was changed into a Seminary Reading Room. An attractive Browsing Room was made upstairs on the mezzanine floor. A convenient Reserve Room was made in the basement. And the Cataloging and Mending Rooms were bettered.

The staff has spent here a worthwhile and profitable year. Miss Mackey and Mrs. McKay have a warm place in our hearts.

MRS. ORVILLE MCKAY, Asst. Librarian

MRS. B. T. LANNOM
Hostess

Charming dignity, calm patience, and Southern hospitality. A friendly hostess and an efficient manager of the dining hall.

The butcher, the baker, the goulash maker: all busy preparing meals for four hundred hungry students.

Monday—Soup.

Tuesday—Noodles.

Wednesday—Cornbread and spinach.

Thursday—Sauer kraut and spare ribs.

Friday—Fish.

Saturday—Liver.

Sunday—Chicken.

It is hard to satisfy the appetites of students gathered from all parts of the world. Credit is due to Miss Adams for her choice of menus.

"It looks as if we might have potatoes for supper," this from the vegetable room. Preparing food isn't an easy task, but it's not bad when working with a jolly group.

"We're forever washing dishes"—that was the theme song of the dish crew under Admiral Fowler. Just imagine washing about four hundred dishes three times a day, besides all the glasses, cups, saucers and silverware.

What remarkable waiters! Matthews, Rentz, Crouse, and Starbuck handle the trays with admirable ease and dexterity.

"All work and no play makes Jack a dull boy." That is what dining hall and kitchen workers believe, so there has always been merriment and enjoyment in our work.

"Ouah" cook and her subs; where the vegetables came from; and those who baked our cookies. Last of all, our waiters who served us the food, not to speak of the dishwashers, etcetera.

UNCLE SAM AND

"Here comes the mailman!" What a rush he caused to the rooms or to the dormitory postoffice, to wait for the expected letter and sometimes the unexpected one. "Seth" and "Reg" are a popular pair when they come to the dorms in the morning—their arms full of mail.

The mailman was "the thing" on the campus in the morning, but the popular set at night has been the nightwatchmen's quartet—the kind of quartet you don't especially care to meet in the dark—unless you're alone. Dressed in formidable attire and armed with powerful flashlights that are Ever-ready, they have faithfully kept all the little children observant of the rules of campus social life.

Listen! The nightwatchman's whistle and—"all is quiet on the White Way." They blinked their lights at nine-forty-five and they locked in all the ladies. Then the N. W. would patrol his beat over the campus. But for further manoeuvres of the "night-owls" see Miss Gorsuch or Miss Evans.

Ladies and Gentlemen, introducing our efficient campus trio, Mr. Criswell, campus engineer; Mr. "Red" Duck and Mr. "Pat" Smith. "Red" is manager, foreman, and head director of the campus workers. He has always taken full charge in case of blizzard, flood, or bluegrass draught.

"Pat," as chief over the janitors, kept the dormitories and other campus buildings in trim.

We're thankful for the industrious workers. They have made this campus one of which we can well be proud.

ASBURY'S POLICE

"It's a poor dish-dryer who can't clean off what the washer leaves on." This saying could not be applied to our Asbury boys who make the pots and pans shine with cleanliness. Ask any of these fellows and they show you how they get the things clean. Wouldn't these boys make splendid husbands for those girls who don't like to wash dishes? Be careful boys, it's leap year. Anyway they are skilled in this art and really find enjoyment, believe it or not, in the work.

It's time for spring house-cleaning and the boys are doing a bit of window-washing in the classrooms. Such industry and diligence is theirs!

What is Culver pushing? Oh, it's just the marker for the tennis courts. Of course, they must be cared for too.

Coal-shoveling is an art, and so is keeping the furnace hot, especially when the mercury slumps to eighteen below. The faithful boiler-room workers kept our dormitories warm and cozy during the bleak winter months.

C A M P U S E N G I N E E R S

How often the girls have heard the familiar "man in the hall"! It was only the electrician or plumber. These plumbers and electricians are just part of the campus engineers and they always have plenty to do to take care of the water and lights for all the campus buildings. Some of them also have worked in the control room during the broadcast each morning.

Have you noticed all the improvements on the campus this year? First of all, the smokestacks were painted to match the other buildings. Then the cement letters forming "Asbury College" were moved to the corner of the campus to greet you as you come from Lexington. The back yard of the boiler room has been beautified, too, with grass and a little walk.

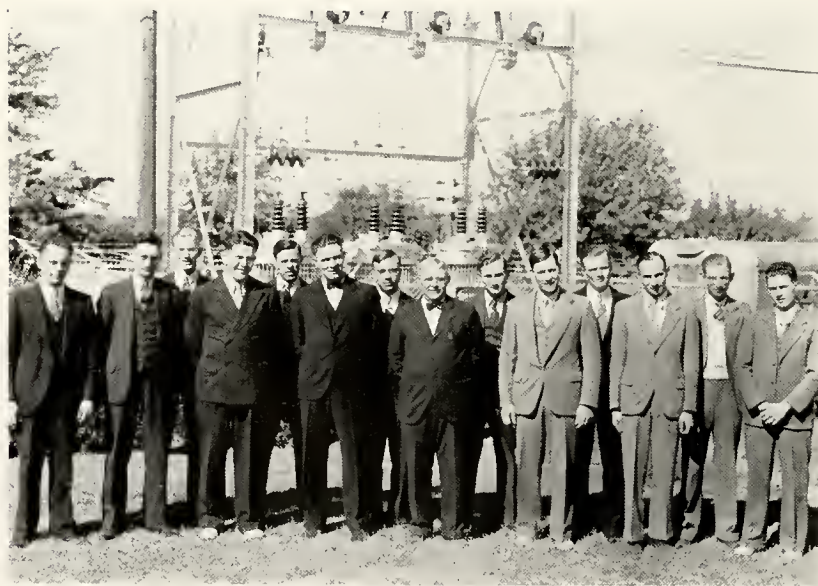

THE WATER SUPPLY

- Looking up to the stand-pipe where our water supply is stored.

Then the front hedge was taken out and numerous other little changes have been made—all to make Asbury's campus more beautiful.

These men have been "Jacks-of-all-trades" and under the direction of Mr. Criswell, they were always on the job for repairs and improvements. In short—a campus engineer is a handy man to have around.

THE ENGINEERS

- Mr. Criswell, his electricians, plumbers and waterworks men, the boiler room men and all the rest. Behind them is the transformer.

Finale

*All things that be
Our Symphony,
Must have an end;
So college days,
Like bright sun-rays
That come and quickly disappear,
Are gone like some sweet-spoken phrase.
But, if in harmony we spend
Our lives each year,
And keep from ways
Of hate and strife, and yield our heart
To greater Art
Unto the Master whom we praise,
He'll play its strings, and we shall hear
The precious tones, vibrant, clear—
His Symphony.*
